

Peter Leeson

For over fifteen years Peter has focused on assisting organisations reduce their cost of quality by improving their project management, risk management issues as well as coaching senior management and directors in prioritising the right values. As such he has worked with the management of organisations ranging from less than a dozen to several thousand employees, including major international financial institutions and communication organisations.

Peter is an SEI Visiting Scientist authorised to deliver the SEI's Introduction to CMMI and ACQ Supplement. Peter is also a certified SCAMPI Class A Lead Appraiser, Class B/C Team Leader.

Coming from a software development background Peter has significant experience in process improvement and quality management working with management and staff as a consultant, team leader or project manager, to determine the most appropriate approach. Using tools such as audits, inspections, reviews and assessments as well as training and coaching in management techniques and technical activities Peter has completed many successful projects with major multinational companies as well as local projects in the telecom, financial (insurance and banking), software, IT, consulting, medical, automotive and electronics industries.
